

Good morning,

As you know the CV19 virus is dominating the news and our personal and professional lives in a significant way. The ICTC PTAC is open for business to support you on a regular basis but we are implementing some risk reduction procedures that may affect the way that we interact with our clients.

Here is what you can expect

1. Webinars will continue as scheduled
2. Seminars, workshops and site visits will be evaluated individually and, most likely, hosted using our technology platforms such as zoom and go to meeting rather than be hosted in person.
3. Client contact will remain active, but we will rely heavily on technology platforms to facilitate counseling sessions and minimize physical interactions. Your counselor will reach out to you to set up alternate means of facilitating counseling sessions.
4. Large meetings that we participate in will be evaluated and we will let our clients know the status as soon as we find out. As you know, we advertise and support many conferences throughout the state. When we find out about cancelations, we will attempt to email participants and update our website. Bottom line: when in doubt, contact the event sponsor to determine the status of the event.

Please understand that our desire is to support you and your business without interruption, but we will have to minimize risk of spreading CV19 by minimizing travel, large groups and physical contact until this challenge passes over.

Thank you for your patience and support.
